College of Biblical Studies in Houston Ranks 4th Lowest Tuition in Texas for Nonprofit Colleges

Houston, TX – The US Department of Education’s College Affordability and Transparency Report has ranked the College of Biblical Studies as 4th in lowest tuition in Texas for 4-year private, nonprofit institutions. CBS has also been ranked the lowest net price in Texas.

This USDOE report also states that most private nonprofit schools are increasing tuition by 6.9% nationwide. For many students, this means college is no longer an option. Dr. Bill Blocker, president of CBS believes this ranking comes from a strong strategic plan to keep students’ needs first. “CBS has made a concerted effort to keep tuition as low as possible for our students. The rising cost of college is making degrees harder to obtain. We understand that it takes more than desire to earn a degree. It takes planning, finances, and a support team to help students overcome the obstacles.”

CBS has consistently remained one of the lowest tuitions in the country for private nonprofit schools.
