Dr. Tracy Winkler serves as a professor for the College of Biblical Studies. He first attended Houston Bible Institute in the early 1990s, when classes were held at KHCB radio.

Dr. Winkler had a desire to grow in biblical literacy and discern where God was calling him to serve. He went on to earn a master's in education from Dallas Theological Seminary and a doctorate in Education from University of Mary-Hardin Baylor.

Dr. Winkler joined CBS as an employee in 2012, and in 2018, became a member of faculty. He has come full circle—from student to professor—with a deep passion for Christian ministry. His mission is to inspire students to explore their biblical interests and equip the next generation to pursue lifelong learning in God's Word.

Dr. Winkler has been married to Cathy since 2000 and has four adult children. With a strong interest in special needs ministry, he serves on the board of a local special needs organization. Throughout his career, Dr. Winkler has taught in various church and para-church ministries, including adult Bible studies, youth and children's ministries, pulpit supply preaching, street missions to the homeless, and a mission coordinator for a local para-church organization.
