Slam Dunk Summer: Michael Young - Phi Slama Jama and NBA Legend - Brings Summer Camp to Houston's Youth

HOUSTON – Get ready, Houston! The College of Biblical Studies is bringing the heat this summer with its first-ever Michael Young Summer Basketball Camp—and it's not just about hoops.

Led by former NBA standout and Phi Slama Jama legend Michael Young, this high-energy camp is designed for boys and girls in grades 5–8 who want to up their game and learn from one of the best. Whether beginner or advanced, this camp offers elite coaching and mentorship from a local legend, and life lessons that go way beyond basketball.

Young, now the head coach of the men's basketball team at the College of Biblical Studies, brings decades of experience both on the court and off as a mentor. He is known for his passion for empowering youth and his ability to connect with student-athletes through the game he loves.

"This camp is about more than just basketball," said Young. "It's about helping young athletes grow in skill, character and confidence—all in a positive, faith-based environment that encourages them to be their best."
